

Linking employers to qualified job seekers and community

About Us

WorkLink is a not-for-profit employment service. We partner with businesses to help them hire and support employees with disabilities.

Nick has worked in the stockroom at Nike San Francisco for 14 years

What We Do

WorkLink can work with employers to fill existing job openings, as well as to create customized, flexible positions that address specific business and operational needs.

What is Customized Employment?

Customized Employment is when job tasks are restructured or reassigned from one or more existing jobs to help a business increase profits, lower costs, streamline routine processes or enhance its customer experience.

Example

Simon works for Phillips, Spallas & Angstadt LLP where he supports the Operations, Human Resources and Accounting Departments.

Employer Testimonials

- “Alvin has worked on my team for 14 years. He has grown leaps and bounds and now manages his own projects. He is a delight to have in the office and is very well respected.”

– Sharon Bispo, Facilities Director,
Prologis

- “When I first hired Simon, I must admit I was nervous about if this would be a good fit. The staff at WorkLink has been an incredible partner to us every step of the way, and has not only helped us to organize the new position but to integrate Simon into our corporate culture. Having supervised Simon for over two years now, I am amazed by what he can do and how much he has learned. I don’t know what we would do without him.”

– Freddie Goins, HR Director,
Phillips, Spallas & Angstadt LLP

- “At Kaiser Permanente, our goal is to reflect the communities we serve. WorkLink gives us the framework and support we need to add individuals with disabilities to our team.”

– Yvette Crespo, Project Director,
Kaiser Permanente National Diversity
